Post Femara

Hello....so this is me today! I actually have a real haircut and now need another one! Things are growing and growing!

I have stopped taking the Femara and my oncologist is supportive! Yeah! So I will see a naturopathic oncologist on the 29th of June. I am hoping that he will be able to point me in a good direction that will assist my body to renovate as well as to not create a reoccurrence of the cancer. More later!

I am off to Austin to teach First and Second Degree. These will be the first classes for a year! And I am a little vulnerable but excited!

More later! Phyllis
